

Parent Responsibilities:

Arrangements must be made in advance for a responsible adult to be present in the home during each session. If an adult is not present, the teacher will terminate the session and the student will be counted absent. The absence will be reported to the school as unexcused.

If the student or someone in the home contracts a communicable disease, instruction will not take place. The parent must contact the homebound teacher so sessions can be cancelled and schedules changed. Advance notice for schedule changes is necessary. Arrangements should be made to schedule doctor's appointments around homebound sessions whenever possible.

Some assignments will be left by the homebound teacher to be supervised by an adult. The adult should follow the homebound teacher's suggestions and monitor the student's independent work time each week.

Parent/guardian should be willing to complete and return all paper work necessary to complete the homebound services process.

The Homebound Teacher and Campus GEHi Coordinator should be notified when the student is about to be released from the doctor to return to school.

The goals for homebound instruction are to provide some continuity of instruction, and to facilitate the student's return to a regular school setting as quickly as possible.
